Grades 5 through 12:

Students at Madison Consolidated High School and Madison Junior High School, grades 5 through 12, have the opportunity to participate in eLearning days which are scheduled throughout the year. On scheduled eLearning days, high school and junior high students use their school issued devices to utilize technology via the internet using Google Classroom. Teachers are available to students, through various platforms, to answer any questions or actively collaborate on assignments as needs arise. On scheduled eLearning days, if a student does not have internet access, buildings are open, transportation is provided, meals are served, and a supervised study area is available; as if it were a normal school day.

Grades K through 4:

Elementary students, grades K-4, will use the scheduled eLearning days as in-class practice days. These practice days will allow them to become comfortable with the technology and Google Classroom should they wish to participate in the three optional eLearning days available for elementary school students.
